

National Renewable Energy Laboratory's Colorado Middle School Science Bowl Registration Form

ATTENTION
Middle School Students and Teachers!!!!
You are invited to compete in the first annual
Colorado Middle School Science Bowl

What is the Science Bowl? It's fast!! It's fun!! It's a tournament-style academic competition that challenges students' knowledge of science and mathematics. Students will answer questions from a variety of science, math and technology fields.

When is the Science Bowl? The Colorado Middle School Science Bowl, hosted by the National Renewable Energy Laboratory, will take place on Saturday, March 13, 2004, at Colorado School of Mines, in Golden, Colorado.

Who can compete? Any Colorado middle school student in grades 6 through 8. Teams are comprised of up to four students and a coach (usually a science or math teacher).

What is the Prize? The top team from each regional competition is invited to participate in an all-expense paid trip to Golden, CO., to compete with 20 teams in the National Middle School Science Bowl. The National Middle School Science Bowl competition will be held June 17-20, 2004.
